All of the first 100 Fry words in the order the sounds are taught. Plain words can be sounded out once their stage is in; a heart word has a part that does not play fair (sometimes two), tinted with a heart over it. Tick a word when your child reads it without sounding it out.

How to teach a heart word: build the fair part with sound tiles and say each sound, then put a heart on the part that breaks the rules and just remember it: in s-ai-d the s is fair and ai says "e". Read it in a sentence the same day. Luvinci's phonics games practice the same sounds in the same order.
